Abstract

This article presents a set of new metaphysical thoughts, known as Subhashitas in Sanskrit. The author hopes that these shortened messages may inspire all to pursue good activities in the society. These quotations are in continuation of previous papers [2-5].

Keywords: God, soul, super soul, mind, senses, karma, spiritualism.

1. Introduction

Philosophy is an enormous informative field. To understand the philosophy and Vedic literature one should have deeper knowledge and critical analyzing capacity. Such knowledge can be acquired by realization, experience, attending various discourses, by studying noble books and pursuing research at peaceful places either alone or with great thinkers. Their microscopic works and their thoughts have inner meanings which would instigate the minds of researchers and others to understand the purpose of living on this earth. Their thoughts also guide people to know the moral and ethical values so that they can have comfortable and respectable life in the society

A new set of thoughts are compiled based on soul, super soul, body, mind and society. These subhashitas are in series of previous articles- Subhashitas: Metaphysical Thoughts [2-5].

2. Subhashitas – Metaphysical Thoughts

a) God, Soul and Mind

- 1) All spiritual activities are meant to go back to Godhead.
- 2) God is on the hands of devotees but he is very far away for demons.
- 3) One should learn to respect God as He is a supreme father.
- 4) Lord has neither friends nor enemies, but whoever is devoted, He is with him.
